

This is a federal law designed to protect the privacy of education records. Education records are those records directly related to a student and maintained by the institution or by a party acting for the institution. It also provides guidelines for appropriately using and releasing student education records. It is intended that students' rights be broadly defined and applied. Therefore, the student is considered as the "owner" of his or her education record, and the institution is the "custodian" of that record. Under this law students have the right to inspect and review their education records, to limit the disclosure of personally identifiable information contained in education records, to amend education records, and to ensure that third parties do not redisclose personally identifiable information.

Some examples of exceptions for having a written release include:

- School officials with a legitimate educational interest/need to know
- To comply with a judicial order or lawfully issued subpoena
- Disclosure to parents of dependent students (IRS definition)
- Disclosure of directory information
- Disclosure for a health/safety emergency

DIRECTORY INFORMATION

The items listed below are designated as "Directory Information" and may be released for any purpose at the discretion of the institution. Under the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, as amended, you have the right to withhold the disclosure of any or all of the categories of "Directory Information" listed below. Please consider very carefully the consequences of any decision by you to withhold any category of "Directory Information." Should you decide to inform the institution not to release any or all of this "Directory Information," any future requests for such information from non-institutional persons or organizations will be refused. The institution will honor your request to withhold any of the categories listed below but cannot assume responsibility to contact you for subsequent permission to release them. Regardless of the effect upon you, the institution assumes no liability for honoring your instructions that such information be withheld.
